closely related course work: in general, a related technical field would be one that involves study of computing. That would include, possibly, software engineering, computer engineering, computing technology, MIS, GIS, Sciences, and information technology.