Training and Experience Questionnaire

Planner I (Energy Facility Siting)

Planner II (Energy Facility Siting)

This Training and Experience Questionnaire is the examination for the classifications of Planner I and Planner II (EFS). Your responses to these examinations will determine whether or not you are placed on the eligible list for either or both classifications. The eligible lists created will be used to hire individuals into the vacant positions.

The assessment is a self-rating process. In the following pages, you will rate yourself on a series of questions designed to measure how your training and work experience have provided you with the essential knowledge, skills, and abilities required to successfully perform in the Planner I and Planner II (EFS) classification. Your responses in this questionnaire will be used later as information for follow-up questions during a hiring interview.

The overall assessment consists of the following sections:

Planner I and II (EFS)

- Analytical Skills
- Communication Skills (Verbal, Written, Interpersonal)
- Project Planning & Workload Management

The Training and Experience Questionnaire is the sole component of both the Planner I and Planner II (EFS) examinations. All instructions should be read carefully and understood before completing this examination.

Failure to do so may result in the inability to process your Training and Experience Questionnaire and disqualification from these examinations. Please keep a copy of your responses for your records. If you have any questions regarding this Questionnaire, please contact:

How to Take a T&E

What is a T&E?

A Training and Experience Questionnaire (T&E) is a way to measure a candidate's previous experience, training, and/or education that is relevant to the job for which the exam is being conducted.

T&Es are typically questionnaires that consist of a series of questions that represent qualities important for successful job performance. You will be asked to rate yourself on your experience, training, and education.

How do I rate myself?

Making judgments about your own level of skills or amount of experience can be a difficult task, but there are steps you can take to help increase the accuracy of your ratings. To start, pull together some important personal reference materials. You are going to be asked to rate yourself based on your previous work experience that you provided on the examination application (Std. 678). It can be difficult to accurately recall in detail the accomplishments you have achieved in your career. So take a moment to refresh your memory. Pull out your resume and review it. Update it if you need to. Look over your previous positions and the tasks that you performed while in those positions. Review past performance appraisals. These may contain development plans or details of projects that you completed in the past. Look over your transcripts. Remind yourself of the courses that you have taken in your educational path. Make a list of training courses and professional classes that you have taken throughout your career. Note any certifications that you may have achieved. Sometimes you may not have the previous work experience but you may have taken coursework that exposed you to similar knowledge or skills. Read the questions and the response options carefully. Consider all your relevant education, training and experience.

How do I choose which rating best represents me?

Keep your application and resume close by to ensure that your responses to the T&E match the information you provided on your exam application and resume. After you have reviewed some of your personal reference materials, you should be in a good position to rate yourself accurately.

- Be honest and truthful. Do not enhance or diminish your accomplishments and experience. As you rate yourself, refer to your examination application and/or resume and refer to them as needed to refresh your memory and assist you in coding your experience related to each question. Do not exaggerate what you have done. While it is common to want to present yourself to the best advantage, T&Es are of most use when your ratings are accurate. Candidates' will be asked about T&E responses during the hiring interview. Falsifying your information (i.e., employment history, experience, training etc.) may lead to disciplinary action, removal from the employment list and/or the inability to compete in any future civil service examinations.

Affirmation Page

All applicants must complete and return the entire Training and Experience Questionnaire(s), Affirmation page(s) and State Application (Std. 678) to be considered for these examinations. The completed Training and Experience Questionnaire(s), Affirmation page(s) and the (Std. 678) must be returned to the following address:

The Planner I (EFS) is the full journeyperson level. Under direction, incumbents independently perform the more responsible, varied, difficult and complex energy facility siting projects; or serve as a team leader on less complex projects or coordinate the efforts of subordinate staff members on larger Siting projects.

The Planner II (EFS) can be a working team leader over a group of specialists working on the most complex projects, but most often works independently as a subject-matter expert to formulate and develop solutions to extremely difficult problems. Generally, incumbents in this latter capacity can have strong “leadership” roles and be called upon to coordinate the efforts of other analysts or researchers on energy Facility Siting Projects.

As you go through the Training and Experience questionnaire, remember to use the experience codes from pages 4 and 5 of this Questionnaire to indicate where you performed the activity and/or acquired the task or knowledge, otherwise you will be eliminated from the examination.
